

Toying with safety

Alert 3.7

Advent Calendar

2 December 2021

Following on from our recent advice about buying toys online, Bromley Trading Standards has been directly notified of dangerous toys from an advent calendar.

Colleagues in Scotland had warned about high levels of a chemical found in fidget toys from a calendar. A tell-tale sign that something could be wrong was the absence of manufacturer/importer details which is a legal requirement.

Warning over dangerous fidget toy advent calendars - BBC News:

If you have this calendar, don't use the toys. Return the product to the retailer it was purchased from and ask for a refund.

If you have seen them for sale, or require further advice, please Contact Citizens Advice Consumer Service on 0808 223 1133

Advice for retailers on toy safety can be found at Toys | Business Companion